

Dyson-Kissner-Moran acquires the crafts business of Duncan Enterprises

Torys acted as counsel to DKM with a team that included Jay Romagnoli, Michael Portner Gartke, Tori Lechner-Sung and Nick Tomazos (corporate/M&A), Ellie Kang (employment/benefits), Alex Tanenbaum (real estate), Jonathan Wiener and Emily Durling (debt financing), Ed Fan and Yu Seon Gadsden-Chung (IP), Peter Keenan and Michelle Lu (tax).

On December 30, 2021, The Dyson-Kissner-Moran Corporation (“DKM”) acquired the crafts business and associated brands of Duncan Enterprises, Inc. (“Duncan”), a leading arts and crafts company. The business has been rebranded to “iLoveToCreate”

Further information can be found on the company's website.

iLoveToCreate is a leader in do-it-yourself crafting for tie-dye, fabric paint, adhesives and spray paint projects. Its brand names include Tulip, Aleene’s, ColorShot, Scribbles and Puffy and its products are available in big box retailers such as Walmart and Target, craft retail chains such as Michaels, JOANN and Hobby Lobby, and online at Amazon.com and Walmart.com.

DKM is a privately-owned investment company with holdings in the Craft, Aluminum, Semiconductor and Recreational Vehicle industries.

Related Services

- Tax
- Consumer and Retail
- Transactions
- M&A
- Private Equity and Principal Investors
- Banking and Debt Finance

→ Pensions and Employment

→ Intellectual Property